THE RULES OF CONGRESS.

Great Importance Attached to a Re-organization of the Committee.

Inasmuch as there will be no contest over the election of a Speaker of the House of Representatives, it has been supposed Mr. Carlisle would announce his committee much earlier than usual, and that Congress would be fully organized within one week after its meeting. It is possible, however, that some delay in the organization may be produced by other causes. If the proposed changes in the rules are made, dividing the work of preparing the appropriation bills among the different committees, the Speaker will be required to exercise unusual care in the formation of the committees on pensions, postoffice and postroads, naval affairs, military affairs, foreign affairs, commerce and agriculture, for upon each of these committees will devolve the labor of preparing one of the appropriation bills, if the Appropriation Committee is shorn of some of its present powers, and there will be great rivalry among the Representatives to secure positions upon them. Mr. Carlisle will be able to learn from interviews with individual Congressmen, before Congress meets, whether the majority of the Democratic members favor a revision of the rules. Present indications are that a majority will favor such changes as have been proposed, and other changes that will be suggested. If the Speaker is satisfied of this fact he will not delay his work. There are quite a number of Democratic Representatives who think that before the committees are formed a Democratic caucus should be held, at which the views of the majority on this question can be ascertained. It is noticeable, with few exceptions, that the men of most influence and experience in the House have refused to express publicly a positive opinion as to the wisdom of revising the rules in the manner suggested by Mr. Springer. The question is an important one, and it is not to be decided hastily and without full deliberation. Springer said to a representative that the movement in favor of a better code of rules seems to be very popular. He added, "A proper revision of the rules would obviate further trouble and conflict between the two Houses, because of riders on appropriation bills. In the House, legislation is put upon the appropriation bills because of the difficulty of procuring it otherwise. Measures of importance are delayed because, under the rules, they cannot be reached, and then toward the last, as the only means of getting them through, they are incorporated in the appropriation bills. The Senate has determined to oppose riders, and every case of the kind causes a controversy. Now let a majority have the power to call up bills promptly, and act upon them, and this vexed question of riders will be settled."

An Out and Out Exclusion Bill.

Congressmen Herley and Morrow have been engaged for the past few weeks in drafting a bill, which will be presented to Congress during its approaching session, which will cover all the weaknesses of the present Chinese "Restriction Act." Referring to this proposed bill, in an interview published in the Examiner, Mr. Herley said: It is not a restriction act. It is an out and out exclusion bill. By its provision no Chinaman will be allowed to come to this country after the middle of next Summer. By its provisions the certificates which proved the chief source of frauds will be entirely abolished, and Chinaman who leaves the United States leave it never to return. The bill bars out all Chinese, whether merchants, students or alleged reputable wives.

The Reno JOURNAL has heard of a District Judge in Nevada who was assessed $250 when nominated in 1882, but who has not yet paid the assessment, although he has drawn $10,000 in salary. Don't be hard on the poor fellow, Christopher. Probably he needed the money to pay his board, man.—Times-Review.

THE PRESIDENT'S SAFETY.

Mr. Cleveland Advised to Remain in Security at Home.

In connection with the announced intention of the President to attend the Hendricks obsequies on Tuesday the Journal of yesterday says: While the citizens of Indianapolis and the State of Indiana would be both proud and pleased to meet the President of the United States, for whom a plurality of them cast their votes a year ago, with such honor and respect as the proprieties of the sad event of the funeral of the late Vice President would permit, and, while the friends and neighbors of Thomas A. Hendricks fully appreciate the honor that would be done to his memory by the presence of the Chief Magistrate here on Tuesday next, the Journal feels constrained to say it believes that Cleveland should not leave the White House at this juncture to make the journey. Dangers incident to the necessarily rapid movement of a special railway train should not be hazarded by the President, whose life and active services are now peculiarly valuable to the people. There are too many risks attending the trip. It is Mr. Cleveland's imperative duty to take all proper precaution. The country has gone through successfully many perils during the last quarter of a century, but the line has on more than one occasion been drawn to its highest point. There should not be a possibility of another strain, if human prudence can prevent. Every honorable citizen of the country, regardless of party faith, will pray for the life and health of the President, who stands alone now as the embodiment of constitutional power and authority, and from the moment he should leave the Capital until he reached it again in safety the country would be in patriotic unrest. The Journal feels free in making this statement as a Republican paper, published at the home of Mr. Hendricks, and as one against whom the charge cannot be made that it would do or say anything against the largest possible measure of honor to the distinguished dead; but Mr. Cleveland is not his own—he is not his party's; he cannot follow freely the dictates of his personal or political friendship. He is the nation's head, and the only life between the Government and an interregnum. In view of this, we would not have him take the risks incidental to the rapid transit which would mark his journey from the National Capital to Indianapolis. Let all the Secretaries come who can be spared from their official duties, but the President should not leave Washington.

The Washington Post (Democratic) says: "Let Cleveland go to Indianapolis by all means. What ardent non-sensate to intimate even that an American President is safer in Washington than in any other city of the republic."

A White House Incident.

The gossips are telling an interesting story of an incident said to have occurred at the White House just before the doors were barred against office-seekers. A Western politician, who called with his papers to get an office is said to have got the President into a corner, where he talked to him in a subdued tone, but earnestly for a moment. The President listened with great patience; then drawing himself up and poking his thumbs into the armpoles of his waistcoat in a way he has, said, in a tone loud enough to be heard by every one in the room. "Now look here my friend; you voted the Democratic ticket for thirty-five years; that you have worked and prayed and spent your money for Democratic success all this time, and that you told the people of your town after I was elected that the Government would be run on a new plan, that there would be a change in the policy of the administration; that the public service would not be maintained for the purpose of paying salaries to a lot of political wire-pullers, but would be managed in the interest of the people and not the partisans; now you go home and tell the people of your town that you have been to Washington and have seen the President, and that he told you every word you said was true. Good morning!"—Washington special to St. Louis Republican.

SUNDAY NOVEMBER 29, 1885.

MITCHELL OF OREGON.

The San Francisco Bulletin says:

Senator Mitchell was re-elected Senator from Oregon through the aid of Democratic votes while still declaring himself to be a Republican. Local matters were the factor to bring about the result. At the announcement of his election he frankly avowed that he remained a Republican, yet conceded that he was chosen by Democratic votes. With this latter recognition in view he promises to make no factious opposition to the Administration. When he says that the nominees of the President, if they are worthy men, shall receive his vote for confirmation, he says merely what every other Republican Senator will do without proclaiming it from the housetops. Only he will resist any attempt of the President to infringe upon the Tenure-of-Office Act. A perfectly safe reservation. Yet if the President should essay anything of the kind, then, says Senator Mitchell, "I would oppose the President of the United States."

The re-election of Senator Mitchell may, however, turn out to be a good thing for Oregon. He has experience, energy, tact and ambition. He is alternately in the Republican and Democratic camp; or rather he is in both camps at one time. He is a Republican Senator elected partly by Democratic votes. He will not be an offensive partisan during his next Senatorial term. He is not, he says, bound up to any corporation or moneyed power. He is going to be Oregon's Senator, looking out for Oregon's interests in their varieties. Well, that is nothing more than what every Senator does for the particular State he represents. He would be a ridiculous object before the country and his constituents were he to neglect this expected duty. Still Senator Mitchell is entitled to credit for his utterance. No matter about the antagonistic elements that contributed to his election. He is in a position now to do good work for his State, that certainly expects much—and perhaps too much—from him. He is certainly acquainted with Pacific Coast problems. Perhaps California, too, can get some good out of him in the Chinese and other questions.

The President and His Cabinet.

A regular meeting of the Cabinet was held Friday. All the members were present. The President's message, as far as completed, was read and unanimously approved. It is said to be an unusually strong paper, containing many new and valuable suggestions. The question of attending the funeral of Vice President Hendricks was considered, and two or three members of the Cabinet said it would be impossible for them to leave the city just now without neglecting many matters which it is important should be settled before the meeting of Congress. The President expressed his determination to attend the funeral. His message was almost ready and could easily be finished on his return to Indianapolis. The Postmaster-General and Secretaries of War and Navy said their reports were ready and thought they would be able to accompany the President. The Secretary of State also thought he could arrange to go with the party. Other members, however, said the affairs of their Departments would prevent their leaving the city. It was finally decided to leave the matter with each member, with the general understanding that all who consistently could go would do so. The party will probably leave Monday morning.

Speaker Carlisle denies the report that he has begun the preparation of the committees of the House of Representatives for the next Congress. He says the proper time for him to form the committees will be after he is elected Speaker.

The funeral of the late Vice President Hendricks will take place at Indianapolis on Tuesday. President Cleveland and most of the members of the Cabinet, besides delegations from the Senate and House, will be present.

The British election returns continue to show large Conservative gains. The "old man" will have to quit.

The New York Tribune favors Logan for President pro tem of the Senate. "Rah for Black Jack."

Dolph, of Oregon, and Morgan, of Alabama, have gone over to the gold-bugs.

THE GOLD STANDARD.

A Tempest Brewing in the Bondholding Circles of Germany.

The New York Sun prints from the Borsen Zeitung, the organ of the principal German bankers, as follows: The agrarian movement against the gold standard in Germany so far has been but a prologue in comparison with the mighty tempest now preparing in the bondholding circles of Germany. The recent meeting of the Industrial Union in Cologne has made it certain that the agricultural interest will not be alone in its battle against the gold standard. The Borsen Zeitung anticipates great disturbances in the international money market as sure to result from the refusal of Belgium to accede to the Latin Union on the terms demanded by France and Italy, especially if President Cleveland succeeds in carrying through the suspension of the Bland act. It declares the bimetalists are only awaiting the signal of the Prussian Parliament elections to begin their campaign.

Morton Frewen, author of the paper in the Nineteenth Century for October on the war against silver, writes to Wm. Henry Hurlbut: The idea that in the States silver is going to drive out gold is, as they say in the West, rather too thin. Bankers, of course, say so; that is their business. The banks have been boycotting silver for eight years and will, no doubt, continue to do so. They are acting under orders from London and Berlin. If you in the States only knew how gold monometallism is crippling our commerce in Great Britain you would not think twice about sharing the same bed. I have heard many prominent authorities on this side, notably two ex-governors of the Bank of England, express the wish that you in the States would demonetize, or at least try to demonetize, silver, because the result would be such a collapse of trade in the Old World that there would be a scramble, especially in England, to monetize silver. How can you lose your gold, anyhow? Do you think the balance of trade is likely to turn against you? Depend on it, silver is a far better currency medium than gold. Gold-seeking, on the contrary, is as much an industry as coal mining. Then why are you to legislate to stimulate the former and depress the latter? One argument will always keep you from demonetizing silver—the price of silver would fall. Its price regulates the price at which you can sell wheat and cotton in the English market.

India is becoming a very formidable competitor with you in these trades. If you compare a table of the prices for silver and Indian exports, you will find that those of wheat have increased, and that the prices have fallen because India has $100,000,000 interest in gold annually to pay to England, and with every fall in price is obliged to increase her exportation, and so, whether the Dakota wheat-grower receives $1 a bushel or 30 cents depends largely upon whether silver is selling at its present price, 94 cents per ounce, or at its price previous to 1871, which was $1 25 per ounce.

The present position of silver might, I feel convinced, be made the lever of a great industrial movement, destined to expand enormously the commercial importance of the United States. It should be used in some such direction as this: It seems to me you might open your Pacific ports, and trade freely through them with all nations, while continuing the existing tariffs on your Eastern seaboard, for if you did this none of our manufactures could be sent round the world, as it were, to the Pacific ports, there to make a profitable entry, but on the other hand, China and India would send you tea, rice, coffee, jute, etc., in exchange for the silver of Colorado, Nevada and California. In this way you would encourage the building of the mercantile marine in the glorious harbors of your Pacific coast, and such a trade would spring up, at free-trade England's expense, across the Pacific, as would force England to buy and monetize silver on your terms. There can be no question that if, as we are told, China is waking up from the sleep of centuries, she is destined to absorb silver in such quantities that ten years hence the ratio of 1 to 16 may be altogether against gold. As a nation, therefore, you have everything to gain by continuing to support silver. Judging from present appearances, the gold-using nations are insolvent. The tide of their currency requirements is retreating, leaving them stranded high and dry on the mud banks of a contracted currency.

Hendricks makes the fifth Vice-President of the United States who has died in the occupation of the office. The first was George Clinton, of New York, who died in 1804, after presiding over the Senate for eight years. The next Vice President to die in office was Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, whose funeral took place in Washington in 1814, one year after his election, and whose ashes repose in the Congressional cemetery in East Washington. William R. King, of Alabama, was the next to follow. He was in poor health when elected, and at the time of the inauguration of Pierce, Mr. King was in Cuba. The oath of office was administered to him there by the American Consul. Soon after he returned to his plantation at Cahaba, Ala., and before the meeting of Congress died. He did not live over to preside over the Senate. Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts, who was elected on the ticket with Grant 1873, died in the room of the Vice-President at the Capitol in 1875. He was buried at Natick, Mass.

BREVITIES

Holmes is quoted at 8.

Hon. Thos. Wren, of Eureka, was a passenger for the Bay last night.

Read I. Fredricks' holiday advertisement, and be governed accordingly.

Supt. S. L. Jones and Judge Sabin were passengers for the Bay last night.

Gen. J. R. Williamson, of Austin, was a passenger on last night's west-bound train.

Wm. M. Stewart was a passenger for San Francisco last night. Like some of the other Senators or would-be Senators he only stops about five minutes at a time in the State.

Edw. J. Abraham, business manager of the Thompson Opera Company, under the management of J. H. Haverly, which will produce "The Mikado" here next Thursday, was in town yesterday.

Several parties have recently made overtures for the purchase of the Lapanta, but the owners declined to part with a mine which has more in sight than is offered, and is increasing in extent as the shaft goes down. So says the Hawthorne Bulletin.

Frank Miller, Cashier of the National Gold Bank of D. O. Mills, accompanied by his wife, sailed yesterday from San Francisco for Japan, thence to India, Italy, England, New York, and home making the circuit of the globe. They expect to be gone several months.

Senator J. P. Jones, although not yet recovered from his recent severe illness, proposes to leave for Washington about the 7th of next month, in order to be on hand at the commencement of the Senatorial session and checkmate, as far as possible, any movement of the enemies of our silver interests.

A full force of miners are employed in the Gold Hill section, including the Yellow Jacket, Kentucky, Crown Point and Belcher, and also in the old bonanza mines of the north end—the Consolidated California and Virginia. The Ophir bids fair to skin out some good ore resources before long. Over 1,000 tons per day is the regular product of the Comstock at present, with a prospect of an increase. Meanwhile a large amount of prospecting work is being done with a judicious view to further ore development and supply.

A Fine Paper.

The California Spirit of the Times, in its last issue, in connection with an extended account of the endowment of the Leland Stanford, Jr., University, presents a most admirable likeness of Senator Stanford and also of the deceased son, whose name the University will commemorate. On other pages are also given front and rear views of Mr. Stanford's residence and grounds at Palo Alto, besides four fine landscape views of different portions of the Palo Alto estate, which now forms a part of the University property. In point of excellence and enterprise this is one of the finest numbers issued by the Times, and reflects great credit upon its editor and proprietor.

Church Notices.

Rabbit Drive.

Capt. Breckenridge and his braves have been indulging in the annual rabbit drive on the Sink of the Carson. A few days ago in one of these drives the Indians captured fourteen hundred rabbits. Captain Breckenridge says this was the largest catch he ever knew his race to make.

Ex-Senator Stewart and wife came up from their home, in Carson, yesterday, on a visit to Comstock friends.—Batter-prise 28th.

NEVADA'S SENATOR.

Pertinent Suggestions and Thoughts From a Carson Republican.

CARSON, Nev., Nov. 27.

EDITOR STATE JOURNAL:—The time has arrived when the Republicans of this State should give some expression of their views upon the senatorial question. Everyone must admit that we ought to select a candidate who is in accord with the people upon all questions of vital importance to the prosperity and well being of the State. Whoever the candidate may be, he certainly ought to be selected by the Republicans of this State. We ought to be able to make the selection without visiting the Palace Hotel in San Francisco to ask the railroad and mining magnates of the State who they want. The question ought to be, who, among our own people, is the worthiest and best fitted for the position? If we have no man in the Republican party who lives in this State that can be trusted then let us send abroad and import some one. But if that is necessary—for monetary or other reasons—let us demand the privilege of making our own selection and not take one who is sent to us by outsiders. If it is the wish of any respectable number of the Republicans of this State that Californians make the selection without asking our leave—let the expression be made public. If we want an imported candidate let us be frank and manly and say so before the campaign opens and give all the States a show. Let us admit—if it be true—that we have no Republican in the State that is worthy of our confidence and support, who possess sufficient ability and integrity to properly represent us in the Senate of the U. S. So far, to our credit be it said, no prominent Republican has publicly expressed himself in favor of importing a man from abroad. It is to be hoped that no Republican who is prominently identified with the interests of this State will publicly advocate any such method of choosing a true candidate. But if we are to be humiliated in this respect and compelled for monetary and other reasons to go into another State let us first consult together and determine who the man shall be.

If our great Chieflain, James G. Blaine, of Maine, could be induced to to buy a house in Carson, and have somebody from a Maine village his candidacy, he would doubtless have many genuine supporters. But it is not to be believed that he would lend himself, for the time being, for any such purpose. Ex-Senator Mahone, of Virginia, is on the fly and willing to locate anywhere for office. We certainly don't want him. If monetary matters are alone to be considered perhaps ex-Senator Tabor, of Colorado, would build a $5,000 house in the sagebrush and scatter his millions broadcast to convince us that he is the proper man.

For one, I am in favor of home talent and opposed to all recent comers and especially to all stock imported by strangers. What say others?

A NEVADA REPUBLICAN.

REMEMBERING THE ORPHANS.

Some Wholesome Legislation for the Home.

The Carson Appeal says:

At the last session of the Legislature the Senators from this county asked that the Orphans' Home appropriation be fixed at $20,000 for the two years. Tom Tennant and George Lammon insisted that so small an amount was not enough, but the Ormsby delegation thought it was and so it went.

When the bill came back for engrossment, however, it had an appropriation of $25,000 on, and nobody noticing it, it went through all right.

Later on the discovery was made that somebody had raised the appropriation $5,000, and the bill having been passed and signed by the Governor it is now a law.

Nobody knows exactly how the extra $5,000 was tacked on. Lammon says he guessed Tom Tennant got generous to the orphans and slid it in, while Tennant gives Lammon the credit as he was also always kindly disposed to the unfortunate wards of the State. At any rate, whoever remembered the poor children did a generous thing, and nobody will find any fault, for the Lord loveth a cheerful giver.

The good Deacon Parkinson in the Carson Tribune remarks, "no man but a boss liar is fit to occupy an editorial chair or use the scissors on the whole Pacific Coast." The Deacon, by the by, plumes himself upon being the model journalist of Nevada.—Times-Review.

FLOOD AND FAIR.

Each Endeavoring to Obtain Control of a Railroad.

The Call says:

It is said that Senator James G. Fair and James G. Flood are each endeavoring to obtain control of the South Pacific Coast Railroad, in which each owns stock, and that Senator Fair offered a bonus of $50,000 to name a figure at which he would buy or sell. This neither of them is apparently willing to do. Steps that had been taken to secure the right of way for the road along Telegraph Avenue, Oakland suddenly stopped a few weeks ago without any explanation. A report in connection with this matter is that the Wabash Railroad wants an outlet for this part of the country, and that the company has had an agent here for that purpose. Senator Fair, after buying the Telegraph Avenue and San Pablo Avenue street car lines, in Oakland, propose to incorporate them among the property of the narrow-gauge railroad, on condition that stock to the amount paid by him as a purchase price was given him. Mr. Flood, however, was unwilling to assent to this, as by that means Senator Fair would acquire enough shares to control the company.

A wasp went buzzing to his work
And various things did tackle—
He stung a boy and then a dog,
Then made a rooster cackle,
And last upon a drummer's cheek.
He settled down to drill;
He plodded there for half an hour,
And then—he broke his bill.

President Cleveland says he is determined to attend the funeral of Vice President Hendricks. All honor to him.
